Together, summarise the outcome of your game here. Do you have a common understanding, direction and means for change, or are there still many things that would be good to discuss together? Did you learn anything new from the thinking of others, what?

How do you feel now after the game? Which dimension of change were you most like? And where were you most divided in your thoughts and lyrics? Did you learn anything new about your own thinking, what?

What concrete steps are you taking to promote change? What are you prepared to do together to make it happen and what are you prepared to do individually? Are you already able to identify the necessary measures?
